FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Oregon Clinic Welcomes New Physician to Westside ENT Division

Portland, Ore., Aug. 4, 2010 – The Oregon Clinic's Westside ENT division welcomes Brian Shaffer, MD. Dr. Shaffer's special interests include allergy testing, immunotherapy, rhinology, endoscopic sinus surgery, thyroid and parathyroid surgery, skin cancer and Mohs surgery reconstruction as well as voice disorders.

Dr. Shaffer received his medical degree with honors from Weill-Cornell Medical College, New York, NY in 2005. He completed his general surgery internship and otorhinolaryngology residency at the University of Pennsylvania Health System.

Originally from Alexandria, Virginia, Dr. Shaffer graduated from Harvard University, where he majored in Chemistry and Physics. He is the author of numerous research articles and frequently presents research findings at medical conferences and assemblies. Dr. Shaffer is also the recipient of the Leadership Grant from the American Academy of Otolaryngology and the Francis W. Davison award from the Pennsylvania Academy of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery.

Dr. Shaffer now lives in Portland with his wife, Christina, who is an architect. During his spare time, Dr. Shaffer enjoys electric guitar and tennis.

"I believe that providing the best patient care is not only being able to identify and deliver the best medical and surgical treatments for a condition, but also to foster an environment of open communication. With open dialogue, I can work together with patients to determine a treatment plan that fits in with their needs and respects their quality of life," says Dr. Shaffer.
